

ABSTRACT

5       Methods and compositions for treatment of cancer and other proliferative diseases comprising administration of RXR nuclear receptor protein and an agonist thereof. In other aspects, the present application is drawn to methods of screening compounds for RXR agonist activity comprising determining whether a test compound stimulates the degradation of B-catenin.